

Dear FCC Representative,

I am an XM Radio subscriber and I do a lot of driving accross several states. The best product I have ever purchased is my XM Radio. The value I get for the subscription service is excellent. Getting traffic and wheather not only locally but also for the many cities I travel to is extremely beneficial to me and I can only get this kind of information from XM which I pay for. I do not think the NAB should have any rights over what I choose to listen to especiallay if I am paying for it. The local radio Broadcast stations report very little traffic and wheather and it is often incorrect. XM provides the traffic and wheather info continuously and I choose when I want to get the info. With the local AM and FM broadcasters, I either have to listen to a specific station for almost 30 minutes before I get this information or surf between channels with the hope of catching a report. This is extremely annoying for traffic info, it is usually to late and I get stuck in traffic.

If you give in to the NAB and agree to band traffic and wheather from XM, I will boycott the AM/FM bands. I thing the correct decision would be to tell the NAB to improve their service and become competetive and not kill the competition.
